

DIY MICKEY CANDY CORN PIÑATA

INSTRUCTIONS

STEP 1 Sketch two candy corn outlines on the inside of the cereal box. Cut out. Size doesn't really matter as you can make your candy corn however big or small you want. For reference my candy corns were approximately 6.5 inches tall and 4 inches across the widest part.

Note: I free-handed the candy corns, but you can easily google a candy corn template to trace as well.

STEP 2 To create the sides of the candy corn piñata I used the side strip of the cereal box. This was 2.5 inches wide. Again, this is flexible depending on how large or small you wish the piñata to be.

STEP 3 Assemble the '3D' piñata with the cut out cereal box pieces and the masking tape. The more tape the better! It won't look pretty after it's assembled but it will be covered with tissue paper fringe soon.

ASHTON MCGILL • MOM ON THE MONORAIL

Hi everyone! I'm Ashton McGill from Mom on the Monorail. I'm a work from home mom to my four-year-old little girl and two-year-old son. This Halloween season, both of my children decided that candy corn is the best thing ever! Ever since then we've been crafting and creating all the Mickey Candy Corns we can, because what's a craft without that added touch of Disney Magic?! Inspired by my littles' love for candy corn and our family's love for Disney, I crafted a Mickey Candy Corn piñata from an old cereal box and tissue paper. Follow these steps to create your own for Halloween night!

Note: As a reminder while creating this craft, please supervise children who are helping or nearby.

STEP 4 Cut 4 circles from the cereal box for Mickey's ears. Mine were 3 inches in diameter and I traced a kid cup I had here. I taped two together with masking tape.

STEP 5 Cut slits in your '3D' piñata to slide the ears into. Can be done with scissors or craft knife. Slide the taped circles into the slits to create your Mickey candy corn.

STEP 6 Take a piece of tissue paper, fold in half long ways. Cut strips (mine were 1.5 inch in width) and fringe with scissors making small snips along the length of the strip. Do this for all colors of tissue paper orange, yellow, white, and black. You'll need more of some colors and less of others.

STEP 7 Start gluing fringe piece onto your Mickey Candy corn from the bottom up. I covered the front first, then the side, and lastly the ears.

STEP 8 At the end I did decide to cut a little door in the back so that I could add candy. I did this with a craft knife.
